The Nomenclature of the United States.

The following information may probably be of use to our readers: it is culled from variety of sources, relative to the origin

Adopting an alphabetical classification. we commence with Alabama. This State used to form a portion of Mississippi Terri tory, and was admitted into the Union as a State in 1819. The name is of Indian origin, and signifies, "Here we rest." Arkansas derives its appellation from kansas, the Indian equivalent for "smoky water," to which has been added the French prefix arc, a bow.

California is a name bestowed by Cortez, bably obtained by him from an old Spanish romance, in which is described an imagi in gold. North and South Carolina were primarily one tract of country, which was known as Carolina, so called after Charles 1X. of France in 1601-some say in 1564. Connecticut is the English orthography of the Indian word Quon-eh-tu-cut, the meaning of which is "the long river." The State of Delaware was so denominated in honour of Thomas West, Lord de la Ware, who visited the bay, and died there in 1610. Florida is the name given by Ponce de Leon, who discovered that portion of North America in 1519. He called it Florida in commemoration of the day he landed there, which was the Pasqua de Flores of the Spaniards, or "Feast of Flowers "-otherwise Easter Sunday. Georgia was so designated by George II., who established a colony in that district. New Hampshire was thus named, in 1739, by John Mason (who, with another, ob-tained the grant from the Crown) from the county of Hampshire, in England. New Hampshire, previous to 1739, was known as Laconia. Iowa is from an Indian term signifying "the drowsy ones"; Illinois from the Indian illini, men, and the French suffix ois, together meaning "tribes of men"; and Indiana received its name in 1802 from American Indians. Kentucky is Indian for "at the head of the river." New Jersey is so named in honour of Sir George Carteret, who was governor of the island of Jersey in the British Channel. Louisiana is from Louis XIV., of France, who for some time prior to 1763 owned

Maine was so called from the Province of Maine in France, in compliment to Henrietta Maria of England, who, it has been said, owned that province. Mary land also derives its name from the same queen. Mississippi, which was formerly a portion of Louisiana, received its present designation in 1800 from the great river on the Western line. The term is of Indian origin, and means the same as Connecticut, the "long river." Michigan is the Indian name for a fish-weir. The State of Missouri owes its designation to the great branch of the Mississippi that flows through it. It is an Indian term meaning "muddy." Minnesota is the Indian for "cloudy weather": Massachusetts is also Indian and signifies "the country about the great hills." Ohio is the Indian word for "beautiful." This name was previously applied only to the river which traverses a great part of the borders of the State. Oregon, is, according to some, from the Indian oregon ("river of the west"); others consider it derived from the Spanish oregano, wild marjoram, which grows on the Pacific coast. Pennsylvania ("Penn's woods") is named after William Penn, the founder of the colony. The name Rhode Island was adopted in 1671 from the Isl and of Rhodes, situate in the Mediterra-nean, because of the similarity that was supposed to exist between the two. Tennessee is Indian, meaning the river of the big bend, i. e., the Mississippi, which is the western boundary of Tennessee. Vermont is from the French word vert, green, mont, mountain-indicative of the mountainous character of the State. The name was recognised officially on January 16th, 1777. Virginia was so called in honour of Queen Elizabeth, the "virgin queen," in whose reign it was that Sir Walter Raleigh made the first attempt to colonize that region. Wisconsin is Indian for "wild rushing channel."

I have left the word Texas to the last, Warner's Safe Cure because there is apparently more to be said about it than about the others. In a recent article published in the North American Review, Governor Ireland, of Texas, asserts that the word Texas means "welcome," and that on the landing of the first white men on the coast of Texas the Indians greeted them with the exclama-tion of "Texas!" or "Welcome!" This theory, according to a correspondent in the Texas Vorwaerts, is not correct. In the ancient Spanish archives, stored away in the land-office at Austin, it appears that certain lands were situated "en el pais de los Tejas," or in the country of the Texas, or Tejas, Indians—x and j being pronounced alike. It if well known that the Texas or Tejas Indians were a tribe of Indians living in the valley of the Rio Grande, who were exterminated or driven Maile Cologne, Etc., on by a more savage. Texas or Tejas is the root of the names of off by a more savage tribe. The word all the Indian tribes in Texas and Mexico. The prefix indicated the locality of the tribe. The As Tejas, or Astecs, dwelt on high lands of Anahuac. The Tol-Tejas, or Toltecs, lived as far south as Yucatan. The Huas-Tejas lived on the Gulf Coast, between Matamoras and Vera Cruz, and the Tial-Tejas were located in the State of

The Equitable Life Assurance Society OF THE UNITED STATES.

From the beginning, the Equitable has been the pioneer in all reforms affecting the security, convenience, and advantage of policyholders. It was the first company to issue incontestable policies; the first to make such policies payable immediately, instead of after the delay of a stipulated number of months; the first to simplify the policy contract, and remove from the business technical and confusing complications; the first to apply the Tontine principle to life assurance; the first to issue a policy guaranteeing the payment of the entire reserve and a full share of the accumulated profits to each policy holder at the end of a stipulated period; the first to introduce the Semi-Tontine policy, which, in addition to all the ultimate advantages secured under the Tontine system, is "non-forfeiting," and has a surrender value during its earlier years.

During the twenty-six years and a half of its history, it has written $105,000,000 sore of assurance than any other company during the same period! No other company has approached the Equitable in the success achieved and surplus accumulated, and the results of management in the past furnish the best guarantee
